

Why I Began My Mary Kay Business

Before I was a consultant, I was a 6th grade elementary teacher. I felt like I was a good teacher, but more than being a teacher, I wanted to be a stay-at-home mom.

When my kids were this age, I knew I needed to move up to Sales Director. Why? I needed more money!

My husband was a cop and we never had enough money. I decided to become a “work-at-home” mom and joined Mary

I always said I joined Mary Kay for three reasons—money, money, and money! But I remained a Mary Kay consultant because of the flexibility of my time. I never missed a basketball game or activity of either one of my kids. I could go on all of their field trips and be room

Matt Bayes

Major in Air National Guard,
Southwest Airlines pilot,

Rebekah Bayes

Vascular Ultrasound Tech

So, why did I become a Mary Kay consultant? Flexibility and money! Why have I remained a Mary Kay consultant? Flexibility and money! There are other reasons, but these are most important to me.